SAFE DRIVING NEED
SHOWN BY REPORTS

Eight States Have Only
One Killed Over Week-
End; 3 in Massachusetts
Slain in Speeding Car.

Two deaths over the week-end brought the Atlanta traffic death toll for the year to 44 persons. A negro, son of Toby Grant, well-known fortune teller, died last night in Grady hospital of injuries suffered Friday night when the automobile he was driving crashed into a street car.

Saturday night, Mrs. W. N. Floyd, of 600 Cascade avenue, was almost instantly killed when the car in which she was driving crashed into an automobile stalled by police to have out a corner sharply.

However, in various parts of the city, many minor collisions occurred, but none of these resulted in persons requiring hospital treatment, although a few were slightly injured. The deaths from motor accidents throughout the state occurred in several sections of Georgia. Only Virginia, with 13 deaths, led Georgia in the national toll.

The death of the negro, Lewis Grant, of Scottsdale, was the 44th fatal accident within the city limits since the first of the year, and the second death this month.

Grant suffered internal injuries, broken ribs, head injuries and a broken knee cap when the automobile he was driving crashed head-on into a trolley car at DeKalb avenue and Warren street.

The negro was driving west on DeKalb avenue and the trolley car was proceeding west. The accident happened about 8:30 o'clock.

Grant was the son of Toby Grant, widely known fortune teller of Scottsdale.

The other fatal accident occurred about 8:30 o'clock Saturday night at Humphries and Peters streets, head-on collision between a car and a trolley.

The patients, all men, were burned to death when they fled back into their burning quarters after the wing had been emptied of its 100 occupants by guards and fire-fighters.

Their names were withheld. Officials, conceding a final check-up might disclose more victims, they believed all but the four had been accounted for following last night's fire.

Two Airmen Poised
For Stratosphere Hop

RAPID CITY, S. D., Nov. 10. (AP)—Two daring army aviators poised themselves tonight for an attempt to guide the world's largest balloon to the greatest height ever reached by man.

Captain Albert W. Stevens, the commander, and Captain Orvil A. Anderson, the pilot, at 8:30 o'clock tonight ordered inflation of the 3,700,000 cubic foot bag for a take-off at dawn.

Their goal was attainment of a level of 75,000 feet—more than 14 miles—in the stratosphere. The take-off is expected at 6 a. m.

Processing Taxes, Cotton
Control Law and Guffey
Act's Levy Collections
Slated for Decisions.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—(AP)—Returning to the bench after a two weeks' recess, the supreme court may rule tomorrow on three questions with important bearing on constitutional tests of the New Deal.

Since the new term began, the nine justices have heard 26 cases argued in their magnificent new courtroom. While opinions disposing of some of these may be forthcoming, observers attached more significance to the possibility that the court will announce:

1. Whether it will review a second case testing the validity of farm processing taxes, and whether it will consolidate the case with the Hoosac Mills suit set for argument December 9.

2. Whether it will permit the government to present arguments as a "friend of the court" in a suit, involving constitutionality of the Bankhead cotton control law, to which the government is not a party.

3. Whether it will restrain the government from collecting the Guffey coal law's 15 per cent tax from the Carter Coal Company until that firm's suit is decided "on the merits" in a lower court.

Georgia Case.

In addition, the government must file tomorrow its arguments why Georgia should not be permitted to bring an original challenge against the Bankhead law before the high tribunal.

Under the direction of Governor Eugene Talmadge, the state's attorney-general asked the court to rule on other things, that the legislation invaded states' rights. The court instructed the government to answer before deciding to docket the case.

It is in the Moore suit that the government has asked the court to rule on other things, that the legislation invaded states' rights. The court instructed the government to answer before deciding to docket the case.

Heavy Docket Ahead.

During their recess, the justices have been hard at work trying to clear their heavy docket as much as possible.

PLANES CONTINUE
HUNT FOR MISSING
KINGSFORD-SMITH

Two More Royal Air
Force Bombers Will Join
Search Today; Fellow
Pilot Halts Hop to Aid.

SINGAPORE, Straits Settlements, Nov. 10.—(AP)—Airplanes combed the western shores and coastal islands of the Bay of Bengal in a fruitless search again today for Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith, famed Australian aviator and his co-pilot, Tom Pethybridge, lost for three days on an attempted record flight to "down under."

Two more Royal Air Force bombers, now at Victoria Point, lower Burma, will join the searchers tomorrow.

At Mergui, Burma, the British flying boats which have searched in vain for the lost fliers, waited for daylight to resume their hunt.

Also at Mergui was C. James Melrose, the aviator who last saw Kingsford-Smith's monoplane early Friday, fighting through a raging Indian ocean monsoon. Melrose halted his own flight from England to Australia to search for his fellow-pilot.

Kingsford-Smith's plane carried a wireless, but nothing has been heard from it since he left Allahabad at 6:25 p. m. local time Thursday, later passing over Akyab, Burma, on the bay.

The fact that the plane could have remained aloft indefinitely had it alighted on the water, coupled with Kingsford-Smith's proven ability to get out of tight places, kept hope alive for the pair.

Thunder of Guns to Echo Armistice
As 'Taps' Pay Dead Tribute Today

Atlantans Join With Nation to Honor Those Who Served
Overseas; Parade to Grant Field From Downtown
To Feature Celebration Here.

By ALBERT C. LEITCH.

Seventeen years ago today at 11 o'clock the mighty thunder of the guns on the western front in France was stilled forever and the World War which claimed the lives of thousands of Americans ended as the clear notes of a bugle rang across the shell-torn fields.

Today at 11 o'clock, "That these dead shall not have died in vain," all Atlanta will join with the world in silent tribute to the khaki-clad heroes who fought and died that freedom might live. For two minutes the city will pause in the midst of colorful parades, speeches and celebrations to unite in silent prayer for those who have gone and for those who remain with once normal, healthy bodies torn and wracked with unceasing pain.

Governor Talmadge and Mayor Key have issued proclamations decreeing the day as one of prayer and thanksgiving. All state offices and those in the city hall will be closed. All departments under the jurisdiction of the county commission will close and banks will close also.

Most business houses and federal offices will be open as usual and the 60,000 Atlanta school children will attend their classes.

Parade Starts at 10 o'clock.

Re-nacting the joy which knew no bounds on the cold gray day in November, 1918, when peace was declared, the city will echo to the boom of cannon and a mammoth parade will wind through the streets, starting at 10 o'clock at Whitehall and Mitchell streets.

The route will be down Whitehall and West Peachtree streets to North avenue and thence to the stadium at Georgia Tech. Included in the long lines of marching men and women will be almost every military unit and patriotic society and organization in the city.

At Grant field the roar of guns, the beat of drums and the blare of martial music will greet the marchers. Dr. M. L. Brittain, president of Georgia Tech, will welcome the celebrating organizations. Major General George Van Horn Moseley, commander of the fourth corps area, will speak on nationalities.

PRIEST, THREE AIDS
ARE ORDERED SHOT
IN SOVIET 'REVOLT'

4 Others Convicted for Plotting 'Holy War'
Against U. S. S. R.; 22
More Given Short Terms.

TASHKENT, U. S. S. R., Nov. 10. (AP)—The Mohammedan priest, Pir Ischan Abdul Mutaliev, and three of his aids were ordered shot after their conviction of plotting a "holy war" against the soviet union, publication of the court's decision disclosed tonight.

The sentence was pronounced November 3, with no right of appeal. Hence it generally was understood the sentences already had been carried out.

In such cases sentences must be fulfilled within 72 hours, unless an appeal is made or clemency is granted.

The presumed executions ended a sensational 10-day trial before a special collegium at Kokand, near here. Thirty alleged plotters were convicted of planning an invasion by the "troops of Islam" which was to coincide allegedly with an uprising in the soviet republics of Tadzhikistan and Kirghiz and the territory of Ferghana.

Pir, it was contended, was to have headed a new Muslim state in the region to be wrested from the bolsheviks.

Sentenced to death with him were his principal "haphas" or assistants, Mula Dekhan, Halimraza and Abdul Satter.

Four other convicted plotters were sentenced to terms ranging from 10 to 20 years.

HARAR, RAIL LINE
NEXT OBJECTIVES
FOR BLACKSHIRTS

Graziani's Forces Anticipate Opposition When
They Strike at Jijiga,
Reputed Concentration
Point for Ethiopians.

By The Associated Press.

ITALY'S armies in the southern Ethiopian desert struck a long and telling blow Sunday toward Emperor Haile Selassie's "garden" province of Harar and his only modern artery—the railroad to the sea.

Columns of General Rodolfo Graziani's forces, said dispatches from the southern front, seized the strategic city of Sassa Baneh in a swift, three-day march from Gorrhaie, almost 100 miles to the south.

Apparently they met little opposition. That will come later, when they strike at Jijiga, 100 miles or more farther north and the reputed concentration point for swarms of fierce Ethiopian defenders.

The capture of Sassa Baneh put the southern armies some 200 miles from the vital, narrow-gauge railway that winds through mountain passes and across all but bottomless chasms on its way from Addis Ababa to Djibouti, French Red Sea port.

Up in the north, the Duce's army of occupation consolidated its lines around Makale.

The blackshirts were eager to push on. But south of Makale, said Ethiopian officials at Addis Ababa, the empire's largest army—100,000 men—under Ras Kassa—was massed behind a towering mountain range to reinforce the borders of Ras Seyoum, the Ethiopian northern commander.

The "Conquering Lion of Judah," meanwhile, watched his "gold army" of 50,000 pass in review at Addis Ababa. These elite, wealthy soldiers, each with a retinue of servants, came from Wallaga province, where much precious metal is produced.

Gov. Olson's Freedom Guaranteed By Talmadge If He'll Debate Here

Jokingly Promises Use of Legal Power To Pardon; Veteran Officer Henson Calls Minnesota Executive To Task for Herndon Reference.

Governor Talmadge jokingly said yesterday he would guarantee to keep Minnesota's Governor Floyd Olson off the chain gang if he proposed constitutional debate could be arranged in Macon.

But A. L. Henson, state Americanism chairman of La Societe des Quatre Hommes et Huit Chevaux, took more seriously Olson's reference to Angelo Herndon, convicted negro communist, and free speech in Georgia.

Olson in acknowledging Talmadge's acceptance of the Minnesota governor's challenge to the debate, was quoted as saying Saturday he preferred not to speak in Georgia, adding:

"I would be obliged to comment on the denial of free speech in Georgia and I might find myself on the chain gang of Angelo Herndon."

Herndon is under 15 to 20 years sentence on the chain gang following his conviction on a charge of inciting to insurrection, based on an ancient Georgia statute.

To Olson's remarks, Henson, who is director of the state veterans service office, directed a protest in which he said the Minnesota comment was "most unwarranted."

Talmadge said he had received no direct word from Olson "but if the news story is right you can tell him I happen to be in the legal position to guarantee to keep him out of the chain gang, jail and penitentiary if he'll debate in Macon."

N. Y. Daily Mail Right.

He indicated, however, if Olson will debate only in New York city, it's all right with him.

Henson, who said he was protesting to Olson in his capacity of state officer of the American Legion honor society, made public the following telegram which he said was sent the Minnesota executive:

"Angelo Herndon was not arrested for distributing communist literature but for inciting a group of Georgia's population to armed insurrection and seizure of major portion of five southern states for the establishment of the Soviet republic independent of the United States."

"He possessed and presented written contract of the communist party, plans of attack on native population and seizure of lands and property and maps defining territory to be conquered."

"It is not violation of Georgia law to distribute communist literature and to distribute communist literature and to distribute communist literature."

F. D. R. BIRTHDAY BALLS TO AID PARALYSIS FUND
WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—(AP)—Plans were announced today for another nation-wide "birthday ball for the President," proceeds to go into the battle against infantile paralysis.

Henry L. Doherty, chairman of the national committee making the arrangements, wrote Mr. Roosevelt to ask that he "loan to this great humanitarian cause your 5th birthday anniversary next January 30."

Mr. Roosevelt, before agreeing to the plan, communicated with the Georgia Warm Springs Foundation, in which he is interested. In answering the President, Basil O'Connor, treasurer of the foundation, recommended that the funds from the dances be divided on the following basis:

Seventy per cent to be retained locally for after-treatment, the money to be disbursed through local orthopedic hospitals, services or doctors upon which the community depends under ordinary or epidemic conditions.

Thirty per cent to be turned over to Mr. Roosevelt for presentation to the foundation.

ARMY ENGINEERS DENY REPORTS SUPPRESSED

Canal Statement May Be Examined at Any Time, They Assert.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—(AP)—Army engineers flatly denied today they had suppressed two reports dealing with the probable effects of a sea-level ship canal on Florida's fresh water, as charged by some opponents of the $148,000,000 Gulf-Atlantic waterway.

A statement from the engineers' office said:

"The Malcolm Pirnie report, which was prepared for the President's canal special board of review, may be examined at any time at Ocala, Fla., without any restrictions."

"The Burwell report, prepared earlier during the War Department's preliminary surveys is part of a report authorized by congress but not yet submitted to congress. It is a long established policy of the department that such reports are not made public until transmitted to congress. However, it may be examined by interested parties on the understanding that the information therein is regarded as confidential and not for publication."

"The parties in south Florida concerned over the effect of the canal on the ground water supply can obtain permission in Washington to examine the Burwell report at Ocala, under such conditions. A number of interested parties have been so informed."

The engineers said Pirnie and Burwell were competent geologists.

Work on the canal now is under way, financed by a $5,000,000 allocation from the federal works fund made by Mr. Roosevelt. Senator Fletcher, democrat, Florida, now is seeking an additional $20,000,000 to finance the first year's construction outlay as drawn by army engineers.

TWELVE LIVES LOST IN GEORGIA CRASHES

who was driving, when a car driven by J. D. Walker, negro, 337 Henry street, S. E., cut sharply a corner of Humphries and Peters streets, striking the other machine, according to police.

Mrs. Floyd was thrown against the windshield, severing her jugular vein. She was dead on arrival at Grady hospital.

Floyd was cut and bruised, and two others in their car, Mrs. Alice Atkinson, 43, and Miss Lucille Atkinson, 16, both of Jackson, Ga., were injured.

Mrs. Atkinson suffered a broken nose and Miss Atkinson was cut severely and shocked. The accident occurred about 8 o'clock Saturday night. Funeral services for Mrs. Floyd will be held at 11 o'clock this morning at the First Baptist church, of Forsyth, Georgia.

Mrs. Floyd is survived by her husband; three sisters, Mrs. L. A. Atkinson, of Jackson, Ga.; Mrs. C. H. Crawford, of Griffin, Ga.; and Mrs. W. Flynt, of Griffin; and four brothers, Len, John, William and Levy Thaxton.

Burial will be in the churchyard with the Rev. John G. Lupo officiating and H. M. Patterson & Son in charge.

Meanwhile, The Constitution's safety campaign gained new impetus with organized groups and individuals pledging themselves to safety, and enrolling to sign up persons on safety pledges.

These pledges list the seven simple rules of safety, which, if observed, will annually save the lives of many persons in this state.

In this connection, observing the primary rules of "letting the other fellow know what you are going to do" was stressed.

Police especially emphasized the fact that proper use of hand signals, signifying to the driver behind what move is about to be made, is of prime importance.

The hand signals, they pointed out, should be given in such a manner that no doubt as to the next move will result in the mind of the "other fellow."

Actual Fighting Is Month Away, Haile Selassie Tells Stallings

By LAURENCE STALLINGS.

ADDIS ABABA, Nov. 10.—(By Wireless).—

The advance of the Italian armies in the last few days, on both the northern and southern fronts, has caused no dismay among the leaders of Ethiopia, least of all Emperor Haile Selassie.

When this correspondent pleaded with the emperor for a permit to go to the front with a camera, the King of Kings made these pertinent comments on the situation:

"I will permit correspondents and cameramen to go to the front only when the real battle begins. Just now nothing important is happening."

"We are happily making strategic withdrawals. Actual fighting has not begun. Do not take alarm at the reports of Italian victories."

"Because of the strategic disposition of our troops at Magdala, in the north, and along the Webbe Shibili river in the south, I must forbid inspection of our defenses at the present time. I can promise now that I am arranging an expedition of journalists to the north, not far from the real fighting is still a month away."

With the renewal of rains in Oga-dena, the King is disposing of his troops at Magdala, in the north, and along the Webbe Shibili river in the south, I must forbid inspection of our defenses at the present time. I can promise now that I am arranging an expedition of journalists to the north, not far from the real fighting is still a month away."

As the Italians' lines of communication lengthen, the Ethiopians' time to strike draws nearer.

2 ARRESTS ARE SEEN IN SLAYING OF GIRL

for further questioning without being allowed to see any persons.

A check has been made of acquaintances of the woman, said Plumer, who indicated that one or more of them might be called on for information.

Plumer said Tear had been unable to throw any light on the case during early questioning, which was resumed this afternoon. No charge has been placed against him.

Crowds coursed through the suburb today. Plumer posted a special guard at the home of the girl's grief-stricken parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Loring, to prevent intrusion. Tear was there helping console them when he was taken into custody.

Known Persons.

Dr. Oscar Levine, acting coroner, said Miss Loring "undoubtedly" went to the wooded section with a person or persons she knew well.

The paper again found near the body, indicated, Dr. Levine said, that the girl may have eaten a barbecue sandwich shortly before she was slain.

Her stomach contents were to be analyzed in an effort to determine what she had eaten. A man's glove also was found at the scene.

"She had changed her clothes shortly before she left home," Dr. Levine said, "indicating that she was going out to meet someone."

There was no evidence that there was even an attempt at criminal attack. I believe that she may have gone to talk with someone who tried to persuade her not to go through with the marriage—someone who had been thwarted in courtship and felt that if he couldn't have her no one else could either."

Heavy, Strong Girl.

As basis for a belief that more than one person may have committed the murder, Dr. Levine said Miss Loring was a "heavy, strong girl" who could have put up an extended struggle against one person.

Instead of a long fight, however, he said indications were that one person may have grabbed Miss Loring quickly from behind while another strangled her with the piece of heavy wrapping cord which was found knotted around her neck.

The official said there were only two distinct wounds in Miss Loring's head, and that these did not penetrate the skull. It was possible, he declared, that the marks may have been made by a pair of heavy ice-tongs, or similar instrument, which he speculated may have been used to drag the body through the woods.

About 50 feet from where the body was found, officers discovered a pool of dried blood, indicating the body may have been dragged from the spot where the girl was first attacked.

Many of his men are veterans of the great victory of Adwa in 1896.

ETHIOPIAN CHIEFTAIN AND WARRIORS DESERT

ADDIS ABABA, Nov. 10.—(P)—

The Ethiopian government announced tonight that more than 100,000 warriors under Ras Kassa—the empire's greatest army—have been thrown behind a 11,000-foot natural fortress south of Makale to reinforce the defenses of Ras Seyoum, the northern war lord.

These powerful forces, officials said, are concentrated behind the mighty range of the Kidanemir mountains, not far beyond the northern city which the remnants of Mussolini occupied in their last great push.

The announcement followed disclosure by authoritative sources that other tribesmen, under Dedjazmach Ayelu, had been ordered by Emperor Haile Selassie to cut behind the Italian armies in the northwest.

This, it was said, involved an attempted invasion of part of Eritrea.

Today the emperor's "gold army" from Wallaga province, 50,000 strong, marched proudly past their ruler.

The warriors of Wallaga, which produces most of the empire's gold and platinum, were attired in smart khaki uniforms with lion's mane capes and head-dresses. They carried modern rifles.

Each soldier of this elite army possesses considerable gold of his own, and each has from 10 to 100 servants, all fighters.

Selassie's nephew, Bitwold Makonnen Denese, a meeting favorite of the emperor) is their commander.

ETHIOPIAN COMMANDER IS REPORTED SLAIN

HARA, Ethiopia, Nov. 10.—(P)—

The death of Commander Afework, of the Gorrhai garrison, while attempting to shoot down an Italian plane, and the attempted bombing of Ethiopian ammunition trucks were reported here today from the Oga-dena front.

The reports said Afework, en route from Daga Bur to Gorrhai, was killed and 13 others were slain or wounded when the plane they were attempting to bring down dropped bombs.

Eight of the wounded were received today at the Swedish hospital here and additional trucks filled with wounded were expected from the Gorrhai area.

Five Italian planes bombed ammunition trucks between Gorrhai and Jijiga, but the trucks escaped without damage, the report said.

There were other reports of heavy fighting in the Gorrhai area, with Italian tanks participating.

Fly-Cops In Geneva. GENEVA. — Among the more substantial evidences of peace which are to be seen in Geneva are a collection of the most ponderous, ox-like, flatfoot fly-catchers that it would be possible to assemble if you were to comb all the police departments of the world.

In fact, it was only by combing the police departments of the world that the Geneva collection was assembled. They come from Russia—Scotland Yard, Rumania, Italy—Czechoslovakia, among other lands and they sit and sit by hour in the lobbies of the de luxe hotels or behind servants' entrances waiting for assassins to appear and bomb or shoot such princes of peace as Signor Alo-

It would be difficult to describe Mister Titulescu with any less cited word than astonishing, though he is a man of about 50 years old, very vigorous, vivacious and graceful.

he has an extraordinarily pink skin and smooth complexion and apparently has never found it necessary to shave.

recognition could be desired by a prince of peace. And any man with a barbed wire beard regarding a slightly puckered but otherwise countenance of Rumania's foreign minister, as smooth and hairless as the sole of your foot and mind of the daily torture of lathering a scraping, must envy Mr. Titulescu. At Same Hotel. Benes also is the Beau Rivage, also on the lake shore at even more de luxe than the Hotel de Bergues. There Mr. Benes also pursues the elusive phantom of peace backed by the usual complement of howitzers, machine guns and tanks. There, too, the fabulously rich and corpulent and rather drowsy Indian potentate and god, the Aga or "Gas" Khan, makes his headquarters.

It is indisputable that this luxurious creature, like Father Divine, is regarded by his followers as God by his followers, but the rather widespread belief that his bottled water is something which your correspondent has been unable to substantiate. A waiter at the Beau Rivage reports that Aga or "Gaga" Karam simply reaches down and pulls hugs, even as mortal men, to let the bath water flow down the drain, a vigilant watch back of the door has failed to disclose any export trade in sacramental bath water through the avenue.

It will readily be understood from this and from a mere citing of the fact that a single room in a non-luxury hotel in Geneva costs $5 a day that the precious boon of peace, like the curse of war, is no slight burden on taxpayers. Possibly that's why peace is threatened these days. It is a luxury which poor nations can scarcely afford.

Pegley's Quarters. It is your correspondent's honor at this writing to be quartered in two rooms in the somewhat less deluxe but not exacting Hotel Richemond, which has often been occupied by Maxim Litvinoff, Russian foreign minister. Maxim Litvinoff did not attend the current fight over peace, but sent, instead, P. Potemkin, soviet ambassador in Paris, whose hair, rather an unpropor-

There are 14 Swiss fly-cops detailed to the Richmond standing watch around the clock, and when the league's engaged in a real fight over peace it's necessary to draw in Swiss plainclothes men from all over the country to augment the polyglot fly-cops of the world.

One virtue of all these fly-cops is that nobody would ever mistake them for anything but flatfoot fly-cops, come what may.

quently nobody ever starts anything they sit and sit, dull, dumb, potterous, and eat at the expense of their countrymen, waiting for the emergency when, like Huey Long, celebrated thugmen, as he called them, they will be too late on the draw.

sentenced to 10 years in prison, 22 received lesser terms, and two were acquitted.

The prosecutor accused Pir of attempting to refit the role of superstitious and ignorant on a people, whom, he said, were being enlightened by a Soviet ruler.

In a bitter attack on religion, he declared that in the pre-bolshevik era the kulaks (well-to-do peasants) and priests played on the superstitions of the people to cheat and exploit them.

Landowners Back Plot.

The plot, he charged, was backed by former landholding emigres who were organizing the invasion.

State witnesses brought out during the trial that Pir made frequent visits to the border to confer with Van Khadja, in command of the invading troops, and the agent of one Kurshimat, described as a leader of the emigre group.

At one time Kurshimat was said to have written a letter to Pir telling him to "build up food reserves, for in the autumn of 1935 I will come with my troops."

The country from which the invaders were to come was not named, but it was stated they were to strike first in Persia.

Pir had three wives, one of them only 12 years old. His aid, Mula Dekhan, allegedly had been abroad for him two years, contacting emigres and organizing bandit raids across the border.

SOVIET ENGINEER EXECUTED FOR WRECK

MOSCOW, Nov. 10.—Ivan Nordin, locomotive engineer, was executed, it was officially disclosed today, in punishment for having run his train into another, smashing up 24 cars. The sentence was pronounced in the Moscow-Kursk railway court after disclosures that Nordin had operated an armored train for the white guards in the civil war of 1919. The wreck was declared due to Nordin's negligence in disregarding block signals.

YOUTH IS RELEASED IN MURDER PROBE

Held for Questioning, Atlanta Freed by Detectives Investigating Death.

An Atlanta youth held for questioning in connection with the murder last Friday morning of Claude Ernest Cole, 50, bakery official, was released by police yesterday.

The FBI reported that the youth, J. R. Bullington, 19, 319 Windsor avenue, S. W.

Bullington was brought to police headquarters Saturday morning, and Frazier Cole, 19, son of the slain man, who was in an adjoining bedroom at the time of the murder, failed to identify the youth.

Mrs. Daisy Cole, wife of the murdered man, was in too nervous a state to look at Bullington, Detective Englebert said, and she did not find him in the police line-up.

Mr. Cole was killed by a single shot fired by a masked burglar whom his wife awoke to find in the bedroom of their home at 428 Copenhill avenue, N. E.

change their minds and pay cash when the work is actually ordered.

The FHA reported that of the $418,341,808, $202,492,770 was in insured modernization and repair notes and $215,849,038 was in mortgages selected for appraisal prior to being accepted or rejected for insurance.

Claims against the FHA for unpaid modernization and repair notes were listed at about $300,000, while no claims have been incurred thus far on insured mortgages.

Of this $300,000, officials said, a large part will be recovered through sales of improvements which were installed in homes, such as furnaces and other equipment which can be reclaimed.

Good Western Picture Features Capitol Show

Those who delight in the stirring action of western frontier days are in for a treat this week at the Capitol theater, which is presenting the well-known western story, "Hop-a-Long Cassidy," by Clarence E. Mulford.

The picture stars William Boyd, Texas Star, and William Elliott.

On the stage is "Manhattan Review," featuring a cast of 20 in eight acts of vaudeville. To top off a pleasing bill, Enrico Letti, musical director of the Capitol, will conduct the enlarged stage band in a special overture featuring music by Victor Herbert.

"Hop-a-Long Cassidy" deals with the adventures of "Hop-a-Long" and his two range-riding pals. How they round-up a desperado and a ruthless gang of rustlers and arrange their crimes against honest ranch owners, makes for a man drama which carries a punch right through the denouement.

With the stage show are the Robert de Mont Trio, who do stage comedy acrobatics; a quartet called "A Thousand Pounds of Harmony"; Jerry and Joyce, dancers; Sandy Morris, comedian; "The Six American Dancers," Ardis Joy, Ford Jarrell and the Donnell sisters.

An added attraction of decided interest are the first motion pictures of the actual occupation of Aduwa and Adizir by the Italian forces; camera studies of Ras Guga, the Benedict Arnold of Ethiopia; and impressive scenes of the hurricane damage in Florida. These are shown in the Pathe News.

Gridiron Comedy-Drama Will Play at Georgia

"Fighting Youth," the gridiron comedy-drama, opens today at the Georgia theater, starring Charles Farrell and June Martel and Andy Devine in featured roles.

In the story, radical students, advancing the claim that football is merely a species of "big business" and that the players are pawns in the hands of those who profit by the game, make a constant effort to disrupt teams by inducing star members of the squad to "lay down" at crucial moments.

Charles Farrell, All-American half-back on the team at State College, is induced to attend a meeting of the so-called "Students' League of Freedom," and his subsequent failure in the next game to play up to his usual standard is the basis for his dismissal from the team. The climax of the story comes in the midst of a thrilling game actually played before 75,000 spectators in the famous Coliseum at Los Angeles.

tional defense and there will be concerts by the drum and bugle corps of the American Legion and a massed band program under the direction of A. J. Garing, Georgia Tech bandmaster.

Addresses will be arranged for the various city schools by the American Legion. Speakers at the school chapels will include Frank Chalmers, Girls' High school; J. E. Thrift at Joe Brown Junior High school; J. Walter LeCraw and A. DuFrene at Spring Street school; Linton S. James at the Frank L. Stanton school; William G. McRae at Formwalt school; John A. Kelley at Jerome Jones school; Marvin G. Russell at the J. T. Howard Junior High school; and J. Emmett Baird at Perkinson school.

E. Smythe Gambrell and George F. Stewart will speak at O'Keefe Junior High school; Judge Alex Stephens at Commercial High school; J. Paul Gilstrap at Calhoun school; H. W. McLary at James L. Key school and J. E. R. Boyd at East Lake school.

The recorders' corps presided over by Judges John L. Cone and A. W. Shawway, and which usually hold four sessions daily, will not convene until tomorrow, it was announced.

At 2:45 o'clock, Atlanta time, the mayor who sounded the call to cease firing on the eastern front again will sound he call on the same bugle in a broadcast from Paris.

Due to uncertain weather, the air show scheduled for 2 o'clock this afternoon at Candler field in connection with the Armistice Day celebrations, will be postponed until next Sunday, it was announced last night by Eastern Air officials and executives of the Gulf Refining Company.

The model plane contest, sponsored by Davidson-Paxon, and also scheduled for this afternoon at the airport, will be postponed also until next Sunday.

A group of ladies, headed by Mrs. George H. Brewer, will decorate the flowers at Grady hospital with the flowers at 8 o'clock today in memory of the wartime president, Woodrow Wilson.

Poppy Sale Tomorrow.

Tomorrow, poppies, symbol of the poppies which grew in Flanders fields, their own brilliant red dyed deeper by the blood of fallen heroes, will be placed on sale throughout the city by members of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the American Legion.

The wounded and disabled veterans whose blood was spilled on the ground of Flanders receive a cent for each poppy they make and the profits of the sale go to the families of disabled veterans and the veterans themselves.

"The need for funds this year is greater than ever," Commander Robert A. Garner, of Atlanta Post No. 1 of the American Legion, has announced. "We hope that every Atlantian will remember the heroic deed by the purchase of these symbolic flowers."

PRESIDENT TO LEAD NATION'S OBSERVANCE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—(AP)—On a grassy, woodland ridge sweeping from the Potomac, the President tomorrow will offer a nation's homage to its hero war dead.

From the humblest homes, from austere embassies and legations, and from the highest offices of government, thousands will join Mr. Roosevelt in solemn tribute to the Unknown Soldier sleeping on Arlington's hallowed hill.

Not for him alone and his comrades who poured out their blood on the soil of France will honors be lavished. The Unknown Soldier lies today in a perpetual agony in a "war to end war" roll the mocking shadows of East African battle clouds.

That threat to peace presumably will be in the mind of the President when he gently lowers a wreath on the white sarcophagus, and when he sends a brief word to the nation of his hopes and determination that the United States ever must remain aloof from foreign conflicts.

Parade Float Symbolizes American Spirit

On the Poppy Day float in the Armistice Day parade this morning will be Mary Baker, as Uncle Sam; Jane Poole, as the Statue of Liberty, and Mary Elizabeth Garner as Poppy girl. Several hundred women of the American Legion Auxiliary, assisted by many from patriotic societies, will sell poppies on the streets tomorrow for the benefit of disabled veterans and their families. Staff photo.

The clear, lingering bugle tones will whisper through the dignified columns of the city, around the bow of the battleship Maine, over the bowed heads of assembled thousands, to caress the even rows of crosses that mark the resting places of military immortals and unsung warriors.

Throughout the day, somber-eyed mothers and fathers will pause at the countless graves, bringing back memories of sons who gave "the last full measure of devotion" to their country.

The principal rites will be in charge of the American Legion.

With natively-uniformed service organizations will gather shattered veterans who still feel the blight of war. There will be youthful cadets, civilians who did their part at home in 1917 and war nurses who helped ease the suffering of the front.

Murphy to Be Speaker.

National Commander Ray Murphy, of the Legion, will speak. So will Mrs. Ada Mulholland, president of the Legion Auxiliary.

The Rev. Thomas D. Kennedy, national chaplain, will offer an invocation.

All are expected to touch on the sober question of perpetual neutrality and peace for America. Before them will be the words of Secretary Swanson, who said today:

"In such an unhappy contingency, we of the navy feel that we can best serve our country and the memory of our World War dead by assuring ourselves that the nation's first line of defense is in such a condition of preparedness as to discourage any foreign ruler or government from provocative acts that would leave no alternative but war."

Part of the rites will be reserved for Woodrow Wilson, the inaugurator of the League of Nations. In the lengthening hours of the afternoon, services will be held at the placid niche in Bethlehem chapel of the national cathedral where his mortal remains lie.

President and Mrs. Roosevelt have been asked to attend, and Mrs. Woodrow Wilson is expected.

FRENCH VETS SPLIT BY POLITICAL QUARRELS

PARIS, Nov. 10.—(AP)—France's war veterans, split by political quarrels, today received marching orders for three different Armistice Day parades as Europe's discussion caused alarms over the possibility of another war.

Germany's new armed strength dominated French thought on the Armistice anniversary. An unofficial report from Great Britain plans to offer Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler an opportunity for Germany to exploit colonial possessions of other nations in exchange for a limitation of armaments and an air assistance pact was published here.

TRADITION MARKS BRITAIN'S CEREMONY

LONDON, Nov. 10.—(AP)—Britain, awaiting a general election in which rearmament is one of the chief questions, will observe Armistice Day tomorrow with a ceremony that has become traditional since the conclusion of the World War.

Two minutes, starting at 11 a. m., London will be quiet, with street traffic stilled, in honor of the 1,014,890 empire war dead.

The beginning of the silence period will be indicated by the firing of a gun on the horse guards parade, simultaneously with the first stroke of Big Ben, famous Westminster clock. A second gun will denote conclusion of the silence.

NEWTON TO ADDRESS LODGE IN HAPEVILLE

Dr. Louis D. Newton, pastor of Druid Hills Baptist church, will speak tonight at the communication of Hapeville Lodge No. 590, F. & A. M., to be held at 8:15 o'clock in Hapeville Masonic lodge hall.

The families and friends of members have been invited, and a special musical program has been arranged. Ben H. Hitchcock, John G. Nease, A. A. Craig, J. E. Caldwell, Walter Kinsman Jr. and the men's chorus of Hapeville M. E. church will participate in the musical program.

ATLANTAN IS WOUNDED IN FOREHEAD BY SISTER

A 27-year-old Atlanta man was shot and slightly wounded in the forehead last night by his younger sister, according to police during a quarrel in their home at 983 Capitol avenue, S. W.

The victim of the shooting is Willie M. Gunn. He was admitted to Grady hospital for observation. Assistant Chief A. J. Holcomb said the sister, Mrs. Catherine Hayes, 22, of 983 Capitol avenue, shot her brother, but said she'd "make a statement later."

According to police, the young woman shot her brother with a .32 calibre pistol when he went to aid of their mother, Mrs. C. D. Gunn, with whom the sister was allegedly quarreling.

NATION'S VOTERS SPLIT ON QUIZ OF CHAMBER

first three questions, and "yes" to the fourth.

The Helena and Kallispell, Mont., chambers were the only ones shown by the survey to have taken an opposite stand.

The referendum will not be completed until midnight, November 23. Many chambers in some of the largest cities have not yet voted, and their action could easily reverse the present tide.

While the national chamber has announced it will not disclose any returns until all are in, a nationwide survey by the Associated Press shows this action to date:

East—Connecticut and New Jersey state chambers, New York City Merchants' Association, and Hartford, New Haven and Torrington, Conn. have voted disapproval of the "trends."

Atlanta Votes.

South—Similar action has been taken by the Tennessee Manufacturers' Association, and the Atlanta, Savannah, Fort Worth, Galveston, and Nashville chambers. Governors of the Jacksonville, Fla., chamber held the questions were "too general" to be answered yes or no, and also that they "smack of political partisanship."

The Knoxville chamber criticized the questions as "not specific enough" and declined to vote, while the national affairs committee of the Chattanooga chamber deferred a vote until the U. S. C. of C. furnishes all 700 members with complete ballots and pro and con arguments. Houston's chamber is not participating in the poll.

Midwest—The "trends" were opposed by the Kansas City, Springfield, Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Lansing, Mich., and Indiana state chambers. A special committee of the Waterloo, Iowa, chamber recommended similar action. The Des Moines, Iowa, chamber is not voting, a Grand Forks, N. D., committee will recommend similar action tomorrow on the ground the questions are "general and vague," and the St. Louis chamber declined to make public the result.

Far West—San Francisco chamber directors said an answer to Question 1 was "impossible because of its broad scope," but voted against the "trends" on the other three. The Wallace, Idaho, board of trade voted "no" on Questions 1 and 3, declining to vote on the other two. All four "trends" were disapproved by Oakland, Cal.; Ogden, Utah; Reno, Nev., and Tacoma, Wash. Salt Lake City's chamber declined to vote on the ground that the subject matter was "partial," while Seattle's chamber will decide November 19 whether it wants to vote.

The national chamber's committee of three which prepared the report on legislative trends consisted of John W. O'Leary, Chicago manufacturer; Harry Scherer, Huntington, W. Va., attorney; and Thomas Guy Woolford, Atlanta, credit firm chairman.

Chairman O'Leary and Scherer are listed in Who's Who as republicans, O'Leary serving as vice treasurer of the republicans national committee in the Hoover campaign. Woolford, a democrat, is a colonel on the staff of Governor Eugene Talmage.

CLOUDY SKIES, RAIN FORECAST FOR TODAY

Cloudy skies and showers are in store for Atlanta today, according to the forecast of the United States weather bureau at Candler field. The mercury will drop somewhat from yesterday's high in the late afternoon, the forecast said.

Yesterday, the temperature range was from a low of 54 degrees early in the morning to a high of 64 degrees in the afternoon.

One of the chief objects of the Chinese attitude toward increasing Japanese pressure, which even before the succession of incidents culminating in the marine shooting was near the breaking point.

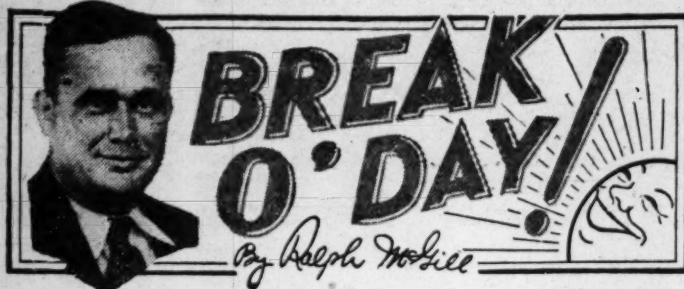

The recent attempted assassination of Premier Wang Ching-wei, inaugurated of China's new monetary program and the Nakayama slaying aroused widespread fear that Nanking is likely to feel the hand of the Japanese military more heavily than ever.

Nanking's dilemma was enhanced by Japanese suspicions, voiced openly by an embassy spokesman as to the recent turn for the better in Nanking-Canton relations, purchased by Nanking at the cost of compromise involving a concession to Canton's reiterated demands for a stiffer policy toward Japan.

The embassy spokesman clearly disclosed the Japanese attitude toward the monetary scheme, which embraces nationalization of silver, with the remark:

North Carolina's Rose Bowl Stock Soars After M. I. Rout

Football Coaches—Write, wire or call Elmer Layden!

There's the boy whose ill-luck provided a national example of just what can happen to a football team. Most examples are local in nature and influence. But when Notre Dame's football team lost Saturday to Northwestern it was an event which attracted national attention.

It called emphatic attention to just what can happen to football teams. It demonstrated that a team which reaches a high peak of emotion and performance one week, cannot come back a week later with a game which is within 50 per cent of its normal effectiveness.

Notre Dame, superlative against Ohio State and possessing uncanny skill and perfection of timing, couldn't get going against Northwestern a week later. The passes that couldn't miss in the closing minutes of the Ohio State game were intercepted or batted down in the Northwestern game.

Notre Dame was in poor physical condition with a number of men injured. And the Northwestern game demonstrated just what can happen when a team is in poor shape. The two handicaps, an inevitable letdown following the high peak of the Ohio State game, and the injuries, were simply too much.

Notre Dame still is a great football team. Elmer Layden is still the coach who taught and inspired the team that beat Ohio State. On another Saturday, Notre Dame likely would win from Northwestern.

But on Saturday Northwestern won.

Everyone knows the reason. And it should make it easier for the local coach whose team may be riddled with injuries and which may have been an in-and-out performer.

Elmer Layden and his team supplied the national illustration of just what can happen to a football team in these modern days of difficult schedules, generally strong competition, and the usual run of injuries.

It proves once more that the team which wins them all generally has a lot of luck, a favorable schedule, a good team and another generous helping of luck, called "the breaks."

Hence the vote of thanks—and condolences—which his fellow coaches owe Elmer Layden.

OUT ON A LIMB AGAIN.

Perhaps it is because your reporter looks more natural out on a limb but whether or no, the fact remains it is more fun out there.

A couple of week-ends of rather accurate picking, finds your reporter with a growing hunch that Georgia is going to take Old Lou from L. S. U. right over the jumps on next Saturday at Athens.

There is no reason for this in the season's record. On the record L. S. U. should win from the Bulldogs by several touchdowns, two or three. But this hunch of mine has me picking the Bulldogs to win. I think they'll take L. S. U. Don't go along with me financially in this hunch. It may end up on the rocks. It's mine and let the old boy have his fling.

Georgia looked a lot better Saturday at New Orleans with Maurice Green in there throwing the football. It was the best offense Georgia has had all year. It had good passing, good end-running and goodness knows the half-spinner which John Bond and Alf Anderson were working, never was stopped.

It won't go that well on L. S. U. But I think this Georgia team may be on the way again. They didn't have their full strength in there Saturday.

It seems to me that L. S. U. is ripe for a fall. And that Georgia is the only team left on the schedule which can make Humpty-Dumpty have a great fall.

Certainly the Bulldogs, already defeated by Alabama, have nothing to lose and everything to gain. They can throw everything they have at L. S. U. and see what happens.

L. S. U. should win—having more good backs, a stronger line and more capable reserves. In fact, Old Lou has everything including the very valuable asset of two subs for each position.

And L. S. U. may win. But it's more fun out on a limb. I like the Bulldogs to knock Humpty-Dumpty from the championship wall. But it's a dangerous limb. Best leave the old boy up there alone with the squirrels.

WHY COACHES GROW GRAY.

Georgia's spin play—not a new one—helped wreck Tulane on Saturday afternoon. It is safe to say the Green-clad line never once stopped it. Now and then the secondary would come charging in to stop the play for a small gain. But often it went for 10, 13 or 30 yards.

This was a play which Tulane had seen and scouted. It was one in which the Tulane eleven had been coached. It isn't an involved play. The left halfback takes the ball, spins halfway around and fakes the ball to another back. He retains the ball and spins back into the center of the line.

Ted Cox sent in two centers, four or five guards and everyone else he could think of trying to stop the play. He told his men what to do. Yet he had to sit there on the bench and go mildly crazy while he watched his team let the play go by.

While it is true that the Tulane line play was rather bad, nothing really can detract from the splendid play of the Georgia trio at center: Frank Johnson and Leroy Moorehead at guards, and John McKnight, at center. The Tulane linemen may have been a little uncertain about that spin play. But had they not been so I still think it would have gone. Those three boys were doing a very fine job of offensive line play.

They had holes in there through which your grand papa could have driven the old family hack.

THE SUFFERING MR. MEHRE.

Never have I seen a football coach suffer as did Harry Mehre, of Georgia, in those wild last five minutes of the third quarter Saturday when Tulane scored two touchdowns and tied the score at 13 and 13.

The game which had appeared won a few minutes before, seemed to be going rapidly away from there. And Harry Mehre was suffering. He sent in subs. He crouched. He leaped. He jerked with plays, giving them the old body English from the sideline. He was all up and down the sideline.

I looked at Mr. Mehre through some field glasses. His face was never still. The emotions of hope, fear, joy, sorrow, gladness, despair, rage, glee, torture, happiness, swept across his face. He was limp when the game was done.

The coach always is a good show. Get a good pair of glasses, not the opera sort, but the strong ones of the race track type, and watch the football coach. He's always good when things are going badly.

TARHEELS NEED WIN OVER DUKE THIS SATURDAY

Princeton, California and Minnesota Display Great Power.

By Alan Gould.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—(AP)—The big parade of the country's unbeaten college football forces, minus the fighting Irish of Notre Dame, moves either in solid formation today toward the closing objectives of its spectacular course.

Only a week after soaring to such dramatic heights of conquest that an entire nation acclaimed their achievement, Notre Dame's injury-riddled squad was knocked out of the championship race as well as the Rose Bowl picture by Northwestern in yesterday's most reverberating upset.

Warning signals had been hoisted for this particular affair. Hard hit by the loss of the sensational Milt Pinsky, as well as other regulars, Notre Dame seemed likely to feel a reaction from its heart-stirring triumph of the week before over Ohio State, on top of this it was evident that Northwestern, despite three previous setbacks, was fast improving and ripe for an upset. Nevertheless, it was a terrific jolt to the university following the Irish to have the Wildcats come from behind for a 14-7 victory, their first in this long-standing rivalry, and their first defeat in seven years.

FOUR BIG ONES.

The latest display of power by the gridiron might finds Princeton, California, Minnesota and North Carolina more or less in that order, standing at the head of the class. Texas Christian and Southern Methodist in the southwest, Marquette in the middle west and the eastern triad of Dartmouth, Syracuse and New York University round out the group of ten major collegiate squads with unblemished records.

California's decisive 14-0 victory over Washington's Huskies removed any lingering doubt about the class of the Golden Bears, who now have only one more big obstacle to overcome in their drive to the Pacific Coast Conference championship and the invitation to represent the west in the New Year's classic. In as much as Stanford had to depend on the trusty toe of Monk Moscrip, for the third straight week, the squeeze out of a last-minute 3-0 triumph over Southern California yesterday, there does not seem to be a great deal for California to worry about.

TARHEELS' CHANCE.

North Carolina's Rose Bowl stock soared as a result of the crushing Tarheels' triumph over Virginia Military, 56 to 0. If this southern steamroller flattens Duke next Saturday, by a decisive margin, it may land the invitation to Pasadena for the last time. Big Ten rules would bar Minnesota from considering a Rose Bowl invitation, Princeton, even if invited after snubbing intersectional suggestions, two years ago, would have to get Yale's consent in order to break a long-standing agreement against extra-curricular competition.

Yesterday was a big day for the underdogs on the mid-western slippery gridirons, but Minnesota's powerhouse once again withstood the pressure. The Gophers checked the rampant rushes of the great Ozark Sunbelters, but to get Yale's consent in order to break a long-standing agreement against extra-curricular competition.

Ohio State, having found out the week before how it could be done, came from behind to beat Iowa, 13 to 6. Marquette, by taking Michigan State into camp on the latter's home grounds, 13 to 7, retained the national's outstanding challenger for midwestern honors. Marquette comes east to tackle Temple this week while Minnesota moves against its midwestern rival, Michigan, at Ann Arbor.

Princeton removed any doubt about its status as the east's greatest gridiron power by trouncing Harvard, 35 to 0. The Tigers topped with the plucky but outclassed Crimson squad, Dartmouth, which now looms as the only real threat to an unbeaten Princeton campaign, gathered momentum to whip William and Mary, 35 to 13, while Auburn rolled up an equally unexpected margin of victory, 33 to 7, over Georgia Tech. Alabama steam-rolled Clemson, 23 to 0, to demonstrate the Crimson still is as a power to be reckoned with in Dixie, while Kentucky outscored Florida, 15 to 6.

Texas Christian, having beaten Louisiana at New Orleans Saturday night and Southern Methodist, which plays U. C. L. A. in Los Angeles tomorrow, yielded the southwest spotlight to other teams in this rugged sector. Texas took the advantage of the occasion to wallop Baylor, 25 to 6, and thus emerge from the conference cellar. Rice bowled over Arkansas, 20 to 7. Oklahoma made it an even break in four Big Six conference engagements so far by trouncing Missouri 20 to 6.

GOLF IN RUSSIA.

MOSCOW, Nov. 10.—(UP)—Golf was introduced in Russia for the first time when Leonard Macomber, Chicago, teed off with a long drive on a natural fairway at Silver Forest park just outside the city. A large crowd of Russians applauded the exhibition which included a 250-yard drive by Robert Miller, Princeton graduate and newspaperman, and a modest drive by Lena Pobedonostz, a petite Russian blonde.

Gains Confidence

Harry Mehre thought his Georgia Bulldogs looked better against Tulane Saturday than at any time this season, and foresees a possible victory over L. S. U. if his boys can retain their newly acquired form. The Georgia-L. S. U. battle at Athens Saturday will demand interest of a far-reaching nature.

Roche To Face 'Rough Richard' Here Tuesday

Rough Richard Daviscourt, who looked good even in his defeat by Dan O'Mahoney, heavy-weight champion of the world, announces that he is ready for Doree Roche, the Scranton coal miner, who meets him Tuesday night at the auditorium in the 90-minute feature match.

Daviscourt gave O'Mahoney as tough a match as any of the challengers are affording the young titleholder in his jabs over the country, and O'Mahoney said after the match that it was one of his hardest tests since he won the crown.

The Daviscourt-Roche battle is a return affair. They met several weeks ago, with the turbulent Daviscourt winning a questionable decision after one of the wildest bouts of the season. Roche believes he is the better man and volunteered to wrestle this one on the winner-take-all basis. Daviscourt indicated he wasn't any too sure he could make it two straight wins over the Pennsylvania boy when he refused the proposition.

Joe Cox, the Kansas City destroyer, and White Grove, who formerly played football, will handle the bout at a Detroit pro club, are to be principals in the semi-final. Ellis Bashara and Bob Wagner are down for the 30-minute feature match.

Ladies will be admitted free when accompanied by a paid escort. Promoter Henry Weber, announces. Tickets are on sale at Piedmont Hatters.

ONE-ARM SHOOTER.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Nov. 10.—(UP)—Handicapped by a broken arm, the University of Florida's only unbeaten college football team and in front of the "Little Four" title race with a 19-0 lead over Rollins and a 13-7 verdict over Miami U. The Cumberland squad of 25 players, headed by Coach Eugene McIlwain, arrived here today.

Georgia moves into the L. S. U. game at Athens next Saturday as the Underdog Bulldogs.

Yet the outlook for a Georgia victory, however remote it may be, is better today than ever before during the current campaign.

Georgia showed the best-balanced offense of the year in beating Tulane Saturday. It was the type game that demanded 60 minutes of football. Because Tulane tied the score in the third quarter. And had threatened in the second and early in the third, before the attack finally clicked, enough to demand the utmost from the Georgia regulars and reserves.

The return to form of Maurice Green and Alf Anderson is important. It was Green's presence which made the Georgia attack. Heretofore, it has not gone well because the passing threat, with both Green and Anderson out of the game, was not present.

Georgia scored three of her four touchdowns against Tulane on passes. Green threw two of them, one to John Bond and one to Henry Wagner. Alf Anderson tossed the other, Otis Maffett taking it.

While the improvement of the offense was encouraging, it was the showing of the reserves which pleased the coaches most. This was a game in which they had to play first-rate football all the way. It was not a question of the reserves going in after the regulars had won. The reserves carried a large part of the burden Saturday as the Bulldogs won from Tulane.

L. S. U., defeated only by Rice and at present the only Southeastern conference team without a conference loss, must have one of the finest defensive teams in the south or southwest.

Yet its offense has got going only once and that against Mississippi State on last Saturday at Baton Rouge where the Army Tigers took Major Ralph Sasse's Maroons by a 28-13 score.

The Mississippi Maroons, undoubtedly, a hit let down after their game with Army at West Point the week before, a game which they won to make it one of the season's big upsets, still had enough to pass to two touchdowns on L. S. U.

But the L. S. U. running game, absent all year, was going Saturday. It had not been present in any previous game, especially the Vanderbilt and Auburn games in which last-minute passes got over a lone touchdown for L. S. U. The Bayou eleven won 7 to 2 from Vanderbilt, and 6 to 0 from Auburn.

BABY JACKETS, AUBURN FROSH BATTLE TODAY

Tech Freshmen Considered Strong, Meet Tough Foe at Plains.

By Jack Troy.

Georgia Tech supporters, having had a full day to recover from the mad spectacle of Saturday when the Jacket varsity went into a last-half reverse before the driving force of a great Tiger line and several hard running backs, today will descend on Auburn, Ala., in hopes of seeing the Baby Jackets even the score in the game with the Tiger Cubs at 2 o'clock.

Well, that is to say, even the score in so far as that 35-to-7 defeat was concerned, and run up a score that will leave no doubt as to the potentialities of the current freshman eleven at the Plains.

Many Tech supporters feel that the freshman squad is one of, if not the best, freshman squads since 1925. And this may be. Today's game may not prove it. Because the Tech freshmen have spent most of the year in scrimmaging against the varsity, learning varsity opponents' plays and have had only one week by themselves to arrange some sort of an offense of their own.

DEFINITE DEFENSE. The Baby Jackets should show a pretty definite sort of defense. They have had plenty of defensive scrimmages, so while they may not do any great amount of scoring, supporters still will be able to get something of a line on the potentialities of the various players.

The Auburn-Tech freshmen game last year ended in a 7-7 deadlock. Auburn's Tiger Cubs already have won two of the three games. Tech, the two games allowed freshmen teams under Southeastern conference rules. The Panther Cubs of Birmingham, Alabama, the victims, 21 to 0, Southern, won the game.

So the Cubs, potentially very strong, should be all set to give the Baby Jackets a real battle today. It will be a fair test.

As mentioned, numerous Tech supporters will follow the fortunes of the Baby Jackets today, Armistice Day, at Auburn.

Earl Wheby, Junior Anderson and Bruce Reed have done some fine running and passing against the Tech varsity this season.

And, in the line, George Smith, a Macon boy, has been performing well at end. Walter Rimmer and William Decker have done good work at tackles, while another Vaux, Allen, M. L. Brooks, a member of Boys' High's championship team last year, have been efficient and consistent in their guard play. Billy Giren is the regular freshman center.

Freshman Coaches Roy McArthur and Joe Westbrook have only one injured player. He is John Greenhouse, a member of the varsity, who is recovering from a knee injury.

S. C. Greshman won't play. The game will be well worth while. Then, too, there is a chance to even the score with Auburn.

As the boys down on the corner drugstore say, let's not spare the rod and spoil the Tiger Cubs.

Tampa U. Battles Cumberland Today

TAMPA, Fla., Nov. 10.—(AP)—The University of Tampa Spartans and the Cumberland University Bulldogs from Lebanon, Tenn., will meet in a football battle here tomorrow.

Probably will draw an Armistice Day gridiron gathering of 6,000 spectators. The forecast points to a rousing battle between a pair of smart little college elevens. The University of Tampa is Florida's only unbeaten college football team and in front of the "Little Four" title race with a 19-0 lead over Rollins and a 13-7 verdict over Miami U.

The Cumberland squad of 25 players, headed by Coach Eugene McIlwain, arrived here today.

Georgia moves into the L. S. U. game at Athens next Saturday as the Underdog Bulldogs.

Yet the outlook for a Georgia victory, however remote it may be, is better today than ever before during the current campaign.

Georgia showed the best-balanced offense of the year in beating Tulane Saturday. It was the type game that demanded 60 minutes of football. Because Tulane tied the score in the third quarter. And had threatened in the second and early in the third, before the attack finally clicked, enough to demand the utmost from the Georgia regulars and reserves.

The return to form of Maurice Green and Alf Anderson is important. It was Green's presence which made the Georgia attack. Heretofore, it has not gone well because the passing threat, with both Green and Anderson out of the game, was not present.

Georgia scored three of her four touchdowns against Tulane on passes. Green threw two of them, one to John Bond and one to Henry Wagner. Alf Anderson tossed the other, Otis Maffett taking it.

While the improvement of the offense was encouraging, it was the showing of the reserves which pleased the coaches most. This was a game in which they had to play first-rate football all the way. It was not a question of the reserves going in after the regulars had won. The reserves carried a large part of the burden Saturday as the Bulldogs won from Tulane.

Not Smiling Now

The above photo of Bernie Moore was snapped right after his L. S. U. eleven had trounced Mississippi State Saturday, but reports out of Baton Rouge last night indicate Bernie's smile has turned into a worried frown.

S. U. scouts, who watched Georgia beat Tulane, apparently told Moore plenty about the Bulldogs, as stories out of Baton Rouge last night stated Moore was very much concerned over L. S. U.'s battle with Georgia at Athens Saturday.

SMITH, FREESE TIE IN SHOOT

By C. L. Davis.

Shooting in one of the best attended weekly programs ever held at the West End Gun Club, Muggsy Smith and young Alf Freese Jr., finished in a tie Sunday with a handicap score of 54 to 54. These shooters will decide this deadlock in a special shoot which will be held during the club's program on November 24 at 2 o'clock.

This will be one week after the quail shoot, which will be held next Sunday, Sam Ham, the Gainesville wonder, finished second to these shooters in the registered program with 49:50.

Mrs. Oliver Healey led the ladies with a score of 36:50 while Mrs. J. C. Ellis finished as runner-up with 33:50. Mrs. Mel Hicks scored 24:50.

JUNIOR DIVISION.

In the junior division, Alf Freese Jr. and Harry Harkins both scored 45:50, while Luther "Snuffy" McDonald registered 42:50. McDonald, defeated Ralph Zachry in a special shoot-off to decide the winner of last Sunday's medal shoot.

With the straight flying fast and furious at the club yesterday, it was obvious that the majority of the shooters were preparing in all seriousness for the championship next Sunday.

Among the most serious was the defending champion, Alf Freese Jr., who with a 39 straight carry-over from last Sunday, added 56 straight to this for a total of 95 straight, which broke his own record by 38 targets.

JACK GRAY SHINES.

Jack Gray, former All-Titan champion, who has been bothered of late by eye trouble and shoots only when it is cloudy, cast his name in the bag as a contender by dropping only one target for his day's shooting. Other shooters who appeared to be in their stride were Jack Tway, 47:50; Dr. Roy Childs, 48; William Henley, 47; Benson Freeman Jr., 47; and Lyman Smith, 47. A number of visiting shooters posted good scores. Sam Ham was high with 49. J. L. Davis, 48; Coosa, Ga., posted a 47, as did Henry Tichner, of Monroe, La.

Yesterday's program was handled by club officials, including L. E. Draper, Ralph Zachry and Cashier Forrest Duke.

Total scores with handicap were:

Tarheels Win, Then Practice

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., Nov. 9.—(AP)—After North Carolina's unbeaten Tarheels had run up 27 points in 15 minutes against V. M. I. here Saturday, Coach Carl Snavely withdrew them, but instead of sending them to the showers he dispatched them to the practice field for a half-hour workout.

"The boys needed the workout," he commented when asked why he sent them to the drill field.

"It's true that I called in the regulars about two minutes earlier than I had planned," he added, "because I was not satisfied that they were doing their best, but I had told them between halves that they were to play a little while longer and then take a workout before going to the showers. You see, they missed two days of outdoor practice during the week on account of bad weather and they needed the workout."

At any rate Georgia has, with her improved offense and the more confident and established reserves, a better chance than before last week.

The Tigers from Baton Rouge remain, of course, a strong favorite to beat Georgia. The odds and the dope all point that way.

L. S. U. Fears Game With Mehre's Team

Tech Invades Birmingham Saturday To Play Ambitious Red Elephants of Alabama.

By Jack Troy.

There was a long-distance telephone conversation between Harry Costello, advance agent of the famed Bayou Bengal of Louisiana State University and Coach Bernie Moore, who cracks the whip, last night which gave all present a clear and concise idea that Georgia's Bulldogs are being viewed with alarm.

It took place in an Atlanta hotel. Costello, former Georgetown football star, football official, soldier of fortune, newspaperman and host extraordinary, was entertaining sports writers and trying to convince them that Georgia would play its greatest game in years and knock unbeaten Old Lou out of the Southeastern conference lead.

As Costello was getting warmed up, the phone rang. The affable Irishman, who studied money at the University of Dublin, in Ireland, before coming over to this country many years ago, went over to answer it.

"Hello, Bernie," he said. "Yes, Bernie, yes, Bernie..."

There was more to the conversation but Costello had all the edge. When the long-distance verbal contest ended, Costello was away ahead and Coach Bernie Moore was throwing passes desperately in an attempt to score.

"You see, boys," said Costello, turning away from the phone, a haggard look in his eyes, "there is more to this game than you would imagine. L. S. U. is worried. Coach Moore is worried. And Costello was away ahead and Coach Bernie Moore was throwing passes desperately in an attempt to score."

Old Lou opened the season against Rice. It was a great battle, but Rice won, 10 to 7. Texas was next. And so has every team that the Bayou Bengal has played since. This includes Manhattan, Arkansas, Vanderbilt, Auburn and Mississippi State.

Three victories and no defeats give L. S. U. a clear lead in the Southeastern race. And Georgia, victors over Tulane Saturday, stand ready to challenge the right of Old Lou to keep his position.

TIDE AWAITS CHANCE. Georgia Tech, managing with its limited resources, to play a great game every week, travels to Birmingham Saturday to play Alabama's unbeaten Elephants in the regular season game. And Georgia, victors over Tulane Saturday, stand ready to challenge the right of Old Lou to keep his position.

Yankee, a contender, has high hopes of triumphing over its perennial rival, Tennessee, on Saturday. A loss would put Vandy out of the race.

Old Miss caught a tartar in Tennessee last Saturday and dropped from the ranks of the undefeated. The score was 14 to 13.

Georgia Tech, coming Saturday to play Alabama, is ready to step back in the race in a big way should L. S. U. drop from the unbeaten ranks Saturday.

Yankee, a contender, has high hopes of triumphing over its perennial rival, Tennessee, on Saturday. A loss would put Vandy out of the race.

Old Miss caught a tartar in Tennessee last Saturday and dropped from the ranks of the undefeated. The score was 14 to 13.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE:

Sugar Fiddle is the name given to a founding at the Lorian orphanage in Virginia by Sophie Fiddle, the superintendent. When Sugar is 17, "Mother" Fiddle places her as nursemaid for Mrs. Dick Le Masters' 2-year-old boy, Skeeter. She promises to wait for Johnny De Ville, an orphan just her age, until he becomes a great artist. Her room in the big Le Masters house is in the cellar and her wages are $1 a week. She is found there by Dick's brother, Carter, when he returned from college where he is football captain, and he and Dick move her to the nursery, causing a family squabble. On Sugar's first day off Mrs. Le Masters' 17-year-old sister, Zanie Lou Langworthy, outfits her in silk dress and white pumps. Sugar's high heels hurt her feet, and she attempts at loveliness but they become friends when she tells him about herself. Carter kisses her but apologizes when she weeps. Zanie, wishing to meet Scoop, arranges a dinner and dancing foursome which includes Skipper Lauer, Johnny, who has found a job in a theater, is angry when Sugar says she has a date on her night off. Zanie is jealous of Skip's attentions to Sugar and is kissing her when she is on the side patch. He forces himself on her with Nancy Sue Jennings. After a scene with Nancy, Cart drives Sugar home. He explains the social distinctions in a town like Lorian and warns her against Sugar's new beau, but she is mailing a letter to Johnny. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

INSTALLMENT XVII.

"Welcome to our bawl!" His eyes did not leave Sugar's face. "How have I missed you, young lady? I get down to New York every couple of weeks."

Sugar was in a panic when Zanie Lou answered for her.

"Oh, she was brought up in a convent. Doesn't she look it?"

"Anything but," Sid grinned. "How about a snort?"

"None for me right now," Sugar evaded, turning to Scoop.

"Now that I'm not driving I think I'll fall off the wagon a spell," he smiled at her reassuringly.

He took the proffered glass and Zanie grabbed his arm.

"Come and I'll show you the house."

Sugar started to follow, but Sid reached across the bar and took her arm.

"You be barmaid." He dismissed Skip with, "Go find yourself a blonde. The woods are full of 'em."

"I get it," Skipper grinned, and strolled out with his drink.

Sugar found herself sitting on a keg behind the bar. She felt decidedly nervous, but there was nothing in her expression to betray the panic inside. She decided to let down and have a good time. After all, even though it was a new world, it might be a very pleasant one. She mustn't judge people and feel they were doing something wrong until she learned more about them.

Patch had a way with women. His wealth paved it. Sugar's fresh face was a treat. He was famous back stage in New York for his generosity, and his parties.

"Are you a professional?" He ## moved his leg nearer Sugar's and began getting chummy.

"A professional what? Party crasher?" Sugar tried to smile gaily. "It's cagey," Patch reached over and took her hand. She could see, even in her inexperience, that he had been drinking too much.

"Well, I see all the shows in New York. I'll pick you out some night and surprise you, beautiful lady."

"Oh, I'm not an actress," Sugar said the light, "if that's what you mean by a professional. I guess you'd call me just a home girl."

She felt she should tell him she wasn't from New York. And that she was only a nursemaid in the Le Masters house. But she wondered if it would be fair to Zanie Lou to spoil her little game. Patch put his arm around her and she drew away.

"Please—don't," she said shakily, hoping Scoop would hurry back. "I must go soon. It's getting late."

"Don't be like that," Patch's voice was getting thick. "Have a little snort and come to. It's the shank of the evening."

Suddenly Patch pulled her to him. His kiss landed on her cheek. Sugar looked up and saw Jim Carter Le Masters standing in the door. She hoped the earth would open and swallow her.

"Well," Cart began slowly, "what's this? What are you doing here?"

Then Sugar saw Nancy Sue Jennings and her heart almost stopped beating. The brunette laughed tolerantly.

"I think it's quite obvious what she's doing here," she said sweetly. "But since when did you start robbing the orphanage, Patch?"

All the color drained from Sugar's face. She got up slowly.

"I'm sorry, Mr. Patchen," she said, managing to control her shaking knees and holding her head high. "I'll save Miss Jennings the trouble of any further explanations. I'm a maid in the Le Masters house, and I don't belong here. It was all in fun, and I didn't mean to impose on you. I'm sorry."

She stalked through the door before Patch had a chance to answer. Cart caught her arm.

"I'll take you home. Please excuse me a few minutes, Nancy Sue. I'll be right back."

Nancy Sue Jennings laughed hysterically. Then her large brown eyes narrowed.

"Don't bother to come back for me," she tossed her head haughtily. "I'm sure I wouldn't want to spoil your evening."

"Some one has to see that Sugar gets home," Cart said quietly. "I'm sure she didn't understand."

Sugar saw the jealous venom in the older girl's eyes and found herself growing more angry by the second. Nancy Sue's lip curled.

"Oh, by all means make yourself conspicuous by running around town at this hour of the night with a servant, if you like. But don't trouble to come back. I don't play seconds, darling. Not with a girl who is so obviously what she is."

Before Cart could answer, all Sugar's dammed-up emotions came tumbling about her ears. She stepped in front of him, her eyes flaming, and faced Miss Jennings.

"I suppose," she began slowly, "you are supposed to be what is commonly called a lady. I suppose your family tree is just drooping with noble ancestors. I haven't any idea who my people were. But if I have to be like you to be a lady, I'm proud I'm out of your class. You're just a dirty-minded, dressed-up little cat."

Nancy Sue gasped. Patch applauded drunkenly.

"Hurry! Look at the nice little fight."

Cart shook Sugar's arm before she could go on. It brought her to her senses.

"Cut it," he said sharply. "Some one will hear you."

In a daze Sugar felt herself being hurried through the house to Cart's car. She sank back into the cushions, her head throbbing.

"Oh, she covered her eyes miserably. 'What have I done? What have I done?'"

Cart started the machine.

"Forget it," he lit a cigarette. "I don't blame you for losing your temper. Nancy Sue had it coming to her."

"I should have kept my mouth shut. Oh, if I only hadn't come! I might have known better."

"How did you happen to be at Patch's?"

Sugar told him the truth. Jim Carter nodded grimly.

"Zanie Lou's idea of a good joke, I suppose. I can't see that you're to blame. You mustn't let it get you down. But I just hope Jane Lee doesn't find out."

"Sugar sighed.

"She will, don't worry. Miss Jennings will see to that."

"No doubt. We'll have to get to Dick and see that he doesn't let Jane Lee make you suffer for it."

"You've always been so kind to me," Sugar's voice broke. "I don't know what I should do without you."

They were in front of the house. Cart stopped the car and flicked his cigarette.

"Then you've forgiven me for frightening you?"

"Oh, yes," Sugar dropped her head at the memory of his kisses. "Of course. You mustn't ever think about it again."

"I suppose you know I've been away. We went on a flying trip to New York. A party of us. I wanted to write you a letter, but I was afraid some of the family would see it and know my writing. I wanted you to know how sorry I was."

"It wasn't necessary," Sugar touched her cheek. "But it was sweet of you to think of it. I've not entirely out of my mind, really."

"I wish I could," Cart moved a little farther away from her and changed the subject. "Do you know if I give you a little advice?"

"Not in the least. I'm afraid I need it," Sugar sat back and waited.

"It's a little difficult to know where to begin," Jim Carter ran his hand through his hair. "But after what happened tonight I think it will be easier for you to understand."

He hesitated, and Sugar kept silent. Then he plunged.

"For some unknown reason, Sugar, girls like you aren't supposed to be human beings. I mean a girl brought up in an orphanage, or a girl who has to work for a living and serve someone else isn't supposed to have a normal desire to meet people and have good times and go places. It's considered practically a crime in a town like this for her to try to better herself."

"I know," Sugar nodded. "I'm finding a little more out every day. It was a terrible blow to me the first day I came from Orphanage Hill to find I was supposed to be so poisonous I had to sleep in the cellar. That was lesson number one."

Jim Carter lit another cigarette. His brow wrinkled thoughtfully.

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

THE BUILDER OF THE SUEZ CANAL.

I—The Great Plan.

(Editor's Note: The Suez canal has been in the news many times of late, so Uncle Ray will tell today and tomorrow some interesting facts about the man who planned it—Ferdinand de Lesseps.)

On a November day in the year 1854, a Frenchman was on his way to Egypt. Thousands of other persons from Europe had visited Egypt, but this traveler was of special importance. He had a plan.

The day after he landed at Alexandria, De Lesseps went to see the viceroy, who was known as Saïd Pasha. During his earlier visit De Lesseps had come to know Saïd Pasha personally.

The viceroy was pleasant, but the Frenchman did not say anything about his plan, on that day or the next. He wanted to wait until things seemed to be in his favor.

One week after his arrival, the great moment came. Let De Lesseps tell what happened when he went to visit the viceroy.

"He was very cheerful, and led me to a divan and made me sit by his side. I felt calm and confident. . . . I had my studies in regard to the canal clearly in my mind."

"I told him of my plan, giving the chief facts and arguments. He listened with interest to what I had to say."

"At last he said to me, 'I am convinced. I accept your plan. You may regard the matter as settled, and trust to me.'"

Those words were sweet music for De Lesseps. After the talk, he lost little time in writing them down.

Now it looked as though the way was clear for building the canal—except for the money. It would cost hundreds of millions of francs to carry out the plan, and where could such a great sum be obtained?

De Lesseps believed that he knew the answer. He would go back to France and form a company. Bankers and other rich men, he thought, would supply money in the hope of making profits from the waterway.

'Hom-Ond' Plan Offers Firm Financial Footing to Independent Grocers

PROFIT ASSURANCE GIVEN PROPRIETOR

Mass Purchasing of Nationally Known Goods Permits Profit Gain.

Aggressive but beleaguered independent grocers throughout the southeast, buffeted by the financial stress and competitive strain of recent years, are turning in increased numbers to the "M" System or Hom-Ond Food Store plans to place themselves on a more equitable competitive basis, according to Walter D. Couch, president of the organization, 51 Alabama street, S. W.

The progressive trend toward these plans, Mr. Couch asserts, is not surprising when one considers the amazing benefits that have generally accrued to those who have adopted them in the past. Nor is it difficult to understand when the multiple advantages of these plans are considered, chief among which are their co-operative purchasing power and the consequent ability to compete with the major food store chains on an equal footing.

The Hom-Ond and "M" System are not a chain organization. Each store is locally owned, operating on a cash-and-carry basis like its chain competitor. The Hom-Ond institution is based firmly upon an ideal, devoted to a great extent to the lifting of the struggling independent grocer from the precarious sloughs of potential failure. Since its inception in 1923, it has pursued this ideal with amazing success and with marked benefit to those who have adopted its systems. It has been largely responsible for the re-creation of many food stores which otherwise might have gone down in the depression's ebbing economic tide.

Beginning in the southeast in North Carolina, the Hom-Ond and "M" System Food Stores idea met with spontaneous approval, and quickly spread to Virginia and to South Carolina. This tide of approval long since surged across into Georgia, and today is echoed by scores of successful Georgia food store owners operating under its banner.

"Through the system is confined to but one independent grocer in each town or trading community," says Mr. Couch, "the scope of its possibilities is by no means covered in Georgia. Our field is constantly broadening, and we are receiving daily inquiries from grocers who wish to adopt the Hom-Ond or 'M' System plans. We

'Hom-Ond' Food Store Is a Model of Efficiency

This photo shows the interior of a modern, locally-owned Hom-Ond Food Store—this one situated at Roswell—wherein, under the Hom-Ond or "M" System plans of operation, the proprietor is enabled to render his trade an economical, cash and carry, self-service offering of nationally known quality foods at prices to meet chain competition.

invite these inquiries and investigations, and are glad to give our fullest co-operation, because we are confident we can be of real assistance to the man who wants to establish or to improve his own store.

In this connection, Mr. Couch stresses the fact that to become a Hom-Ond Food Store owner, one need not have years of experience as a grocer. The "M" System is so carefully and so thoroughly developed, he adds, that any wide-awake businessman, with a mind open and susceptible to modern and aggressive merchandising methods, may become a Hom-Ond operator with definite hope of success in his endeavor.

In support of his invitation, Mr. Couch cites the records of countless present Hom-Ond operators—graphic and unmistakable proofs of the efficiency of the ideal behind the Hom-Ond institution and its system of food store operation. In cities, towns and communities scattered throughout the southeast, he points with a justifiable pride to prospering stores which are the direct results of this ideal. Once "best stores," they have been "resurrected," so to speak, under the Hom-Ond and "M" System plans. Thoroughly rejuvenated and modernized, and with the ultimate in sanitation and attractive display introduced, they have met instant approval and spontaneously increased patronage.

"The independent grocer who now is struggling under the burden of overwhelming chain competition," says Mr. Couch, "has in the 'M' System and Hom-Ond Food Store plans the most adequate answer to his needs. They have been perfected so that he may be assured of a profit. They permit him to sell the highest quality foods at prices second to none, since they provide for supplying him, in company with countless other proprietors, the best foods obtainable through the Cojock Company, Inc., the Hom-Ond and 'M' System's wholesale unit."

The grocer who is interested in improving his lot, Mr. Couch points out, will do wisely and well to investigate these plans.

GRIFFIN, Ga., Nov. 10.—(AP)—Quimby Melton, past national vice commander of the American Legion, speaking at an Armistice service here tonight, said the "whole strength of the American Legion will be thrown solidly behind efforts to keep America free from foreign entanglements that could easily result in America becoming involved in another European war."

HOME SCREENING URGED BY STREET

Atlanta Cabinet Shop Fully Equipped to Render Specialized Service.

In winter as well as in summer, in Atlanta's mild atmosphere, the home that is unscreened is unfinished, declares J. G. Street, president of the Atlanta Cabinet Shop, Inc., at 591 Edgewood avenue, S. E.

The screen Mr. Street asserts, is just as vital a part of the home as its doors or windows, or its roof, and from a standpoint of later economy this detail should by no means be overlooked in the construction of a new home. The person now contemplating building a home, or whose new residence already is under construction, should incorporate this important detail in his plans, he adds.

This is an excellent season of the year also, Mr. Street points out, for the owners of Atlanta residences to inspect their screening and to attend to repairs or replacements. He calls special attention to the fact present prices are low, that in the general improvement of business they will rise, and that substantial savings may be effected by having this work done now.

The Atlanta Cabinet Shop, Inc., is equipped to render a complete service on the construction of screens of any type, each tailored, so to speak, to exactly fit the space for which it is intended. Screens of its workmanship are not merely "custom built," but each is constructed to meet the most exacting requirements of the purchaser.

Screens may be obtained here in a choice of three wires—black enamel, galvanized and copper—in addition to the universally popular Rolsecreens, of all-metal construction, which are built in with the windows and may be rolled up or down at will.

Rolsecreens have been introduced by the Atlanta Cabinet Shop, Inc., through arrangement with the manufacturer, and a factory representative will be glad to consult with any homeowner or builder on Rolsecreens equipment.

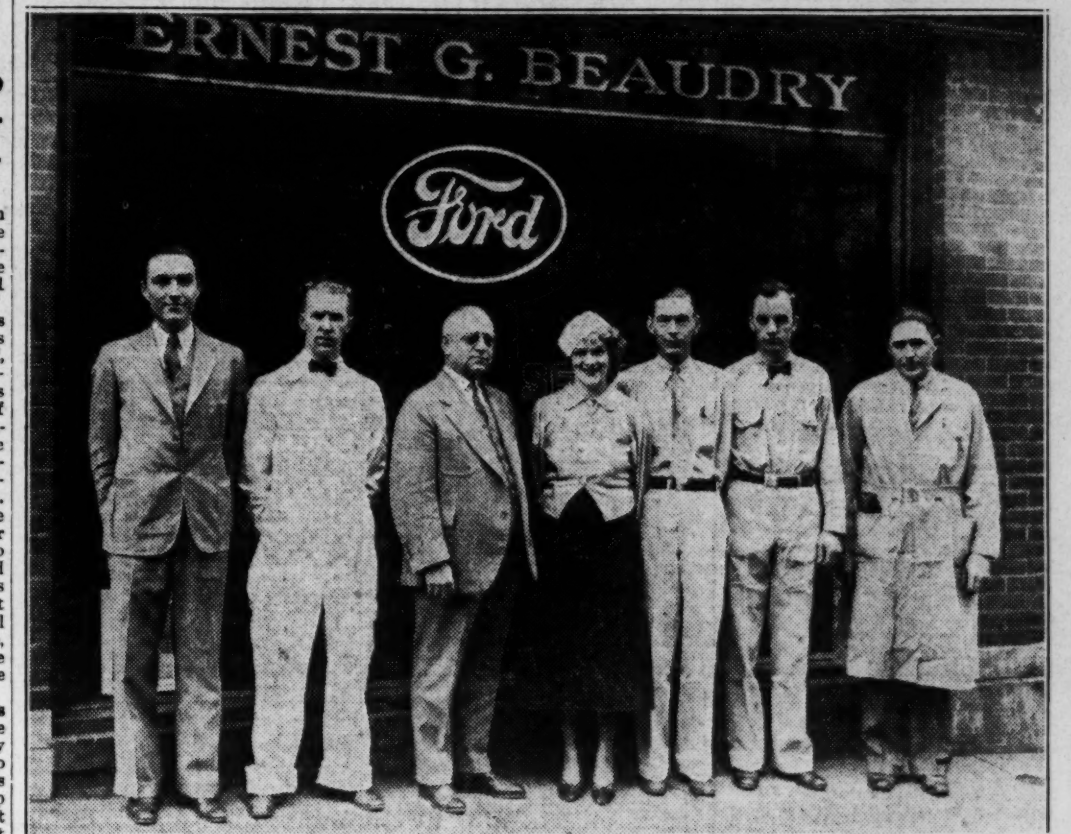

The Atlanta Cabinet Shop, Inc., as its name implies, also is prepared to render a widely diversified service on cabinet work of every type. It specializes in the construction of shelving, partitions, counters, showcases, booths, wall cases, railings and many other commercial needs.

If in addition, completely equipped and efficiently manned departments for auto body work, sheet metal work, painting, glass work and many other automobile maintenance tasks.

The Ernest G. Beaudry service department, which is situated at 172 Walton street, has witnessed a phenomenal increase in patronage in business this year, as is clearly evidenced by the fact its volume has totaled approximately $280,000 during the first ten months of 1935, as compared with about $200,000 for the whole of 1934.

Parts sales alone, during the first ten months of this year, have accounted for approximately $160,000, as compared with about $125,000 for all of 1934. During the same period, contract labor has totaled $85,000, compared with only $64,000 during all of last year. The Beaudry service

Service, Ernest G. Beaudry's Watchword, Reflected in Steadily Gaining Patronage

Among the guiding hands in the Ernest G. Beaudry organization are those pictured above, left to right: R. O. Bryant, manager of the parts department; H. A. Thompson, assistant foreman of the used car shop; Ernest G. Beaudry, Miss Hazel Gleason, assistant service manager; R. F. Brady, assistant service manager; C. H. Thompson, general shop foreman, and E. A. Wood, assistant service manager. W. W. Jones, general manager of the Beaudry service department, is not shown in the picture. Miss Gleason, for the past seven years connected with the Atlanta Athletic Club, has just joined the Beaudry staff.

Strict maintenance of a high standard of workmanship, a firm policy combining efficiency, friendliness and courtesy, and fairness in all its dealings have placed the Ernest G. Beaudry Ford service department definitely out in front—a fact sustained by proof of an amazingly increased patronage this year.

Service has been the keystone of the Ernest G. Beaudry structure, and its day-to-day watchword ever since the company's inception. In support of this policy, it has kept step with its consistently increasing patronage through the years, and has pursued a program under which its facilities and staff have constantly been increased to meet the new demands for service.

In this connection, W. W. Jones, superintendent of service of the Ernest G. Beaudry organization, has just announced the addition of Miss Hazel Gleason to the service department's office staff. Miss Gleason, who has been connected with the Atlanta Athletic Club for the last seven years, will assist Mr. Jones in the maintenance of service records and in handling the increasing Beaudry trade.

This innovation in automobile service is expected to receive a generous reception.

The Ernest G. Beaudry service department, which is situated at 172 Walton street, has witnessed a phenomenal increase in patronage in business this year, as is clearly evidenced by the fact its volume has totaled approximately $280,000 during the first ten months of 1935, as compared with about $200,000 for the whole of 1934.

department has turned out about 25,000 different jobs to date, as compared with about 19,000 during the whole of 1934.

These figures point not only to a very positive betterment of business, and consequent greater freedom of spending, but indicate a tremendous increase in favor for Beaudry service. Atlantans know, when they entrust their automotive repairs to the Beaudry organization, that they will get full value for the money they spend, at the hands of men who have undergone thorough and intensive training in the Ford factories. The service department at present employs more than 50 such men, either highly skilled in some special phase of automotive maintenance or thoroughly capable of rendering an all-inclusive general service.

Beaudry service, however, is by no means confined to Fords. Its service department is open to the owners of all other makes of cars, to whom is assured the same class of service as is rendered for Fords.

THE TARZAN TWINS No. 61

As the boys returned to their prison but, complete gloom descended upon them for the first time since their capture. The actuality of their fate had never seemed more than a bad dream, but now it was borne into them as something very real, very terrible, and very close!

They realized now that in the bottom of their hearts they had counted on the mighty Tarzan rescuing them from the clutches of the cannibals. Now that hope was gone. "Gee," sighed Doc, "I wish we had died instead of Tarzan. He's much more important to the world."

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

"We have to die, too," Dick reminded mournfully. Dick's hopelessness stirred stubborn Doc to new defiance. "Humph! This is a fine way for the Tarzan Twins to act. No, Dick, we can't give up this way. We've got to be true to Tarzan's memory. We've got to fight!"

Armed with pistols, two negroes jumped on the running board of the automobile of a Ben Hill man about 1 o'clock yesterday morning, took $4.05 from his pockets, then forced him from the car and drove off in the machine.

The incident was reported to police by W. F. Wilson. He told the police he was driving in Whitehall street when, at Fair street, S. W., the negroes jumped on the running board and boarded the machine.

Woman Admits Slaying, Surrendering to Police

"I killed a man—here's the knife."

With these words, and placing the weapon on a desk in police headquarters, a young negro woman confessed to fatally stabbing a negro early Sunday morning, according to police.

The woman who allegedly murdered the negro told Patrolman Jack Williams she stabbed Ted Benton, 23, during a quarrel in a house in the rear of 200 London lane, S. W., Benton, in a dying condition from a stab wound just above the heart, was found near the house by a pedestrian, and removed to Grady hospital, where he died shortly after being admitted.

He was brought to the hospital about 2:30 o'clock Sunday morning, and the negro woman, who gave her name as Mary L. Bowie, 22, surrendered to police about two hours later.

Stalin 'Begg' Money

For Girl's Tram Fare

MOSCOW, Nov. 10.—(AP)—Joseph Stalin, Russia's dictator, had to borrow money from War Commissar Voroshilov when a 12-year-old girl who had been his guest at a parade in Red Square asked for carfare home.

Stalin called the girl from the crowd to the reviewing stand on Lenin's tomb during celebration of the red revolution anniversary Thursday.

She told him her name was Lenina Varshavskaya, and that she lived in Kunsevo, a town just outside of Moscow.

"That's a good name," said Stalin. "Stay here with me and watch the parade."

After the parade the little girl told the dictator: "I need ten kopeks carfare home. I guess I'll have to go to my aunt's house to get it."

Stalin felt in his pockets and found nothing, then turned to Voroshilov for aid.

The war commissar produced the money which Stalin passed to the girl, but later decided to send her home in a government car.
